Obedient Subversiveness:
How the Bible Creates Cultural Critics

Monday, 17 May
7.30PM | On Zoom

Dr Chris Watkin

Lecturer at Monash University

Please join us on Zoom as Dr Watkin speaks on how the Bible embodies and encourages cultural engagement of the broadest and most penetrating sort, and how it helps us to become wise cultural critics.

A Christian Heritage Zoom Webinar on Monday, March 29th at 7.30pm with one of the world's leading experts on the evidence for the resurrection:

The Death of Death: How Easter Changes Everything

with Dr. Gary Habermas, Liberty University.

We put faith in many things to prolong our lives – vaccines, tofu, kombucha – and yet still have not found a way to defeat what the Bible calls ‘the last enemy’, death itself. Could it be that the Easter Story has something to say to a society striving for eternity? A great event for sceptics and believers alike, book your free place at www.roundchurchcambridge.org

Another bright idea for Easter from CPO – My Neon Life

a video launched over the holiday weekend
for churches to use in their Easter Sunday services.

As we approach the easing of lockdown restrictions, we want to flood the UK with hope, reconciliation and gratitude – to magnify the message of new life found in the Easter story.’

CPO joined up with the team at Digital Church Toolkit to plan a campaign across print, online and in churches. They started by sharing stories of hope on social media, then launched a competition for UK Christians to create art which expresses the meaning of Easter in their own lives.

‘We engaged with poets, rap artists, sculptors, animators, spoken-word artists, writers, dancers, designers, videographers – anyone creative,’ said Stew. ‘Finally, we partnered with a Christian creative collective based in Bath, called Orphan No More.’

Together with Orphan No More, CPO have produced a video which communicates the story of Easter in an original way, highlighting the hope we can all find in the Gospel. Launched over Easter weekend, the video is available for download and can be included as part of churches’ Easter Sunday services.

GenR8 EASTER RESOURCES from GenR8

GenR8 would like to share with churches the video resources that we are producing for primary schools this term.

Three Easter videos will be available online from 8th March, telling the Easter story from Palm Sunday to Easter Sunday. These are accompanied by activity and follow-up material.

These can be found online alongside the latest GenR8 Connect videos www.genr8.org/videos.

New GenR8 Reflect videos www.genr8.org/prayer-spaces videos are also available for churches to use.

COLLECTIVE TERMLY -

Tuesday 27th April

Do you work with young people? Then join us on Zoom for Collective Termly to connect with other youth workers in the area and share support and encouragement.

This time, some of the team from Faraday Institute, (a Christian organisation committed to healthy dialogue between science and faith), will be sharing some lessons learned from their schools work on how young people view science and faith issues, and how we as youth workers can be equipped to engage with young people in this area!

A Christian Heritage Zoom Webinar

OBEDIENT SUBVERSIVENESS:

HOW THE BIBLE CREATES CULTURAL CRITICS
with Dr Chris Watkin

on Monday, May 17th at 7:30pm BST

Christians have not always had a reputation for their depth and breadth of engagement in culture and the arts. Where they have fallen short of practising discerning cultural engagement, Dr Chris Watkin argues that it is because they have wandered away from the nature and teaching of the Christian Scriptures. In this webinar, we will see how the Bible embodies and encourages cultural engagement of the broadest and most penetrating sort. We will note that the Bible is peculiarly able to furnish favourable conditions for a cultural criticism which is expansive in scope yet disciplined in analysis, warmly affirming, acutely critiquing and subversively fulfilling the aspirations of our cultural life. Indeed, we will explore just how it is that the Bible creates wise cultural critics.

After a presentation from Dr Watkin, there will be the opportunity for discussion and Q and A on the topic of the Bible and cultural engagement.

The Faraday Institute for Science and Religion
SUMMER COURSE:

Interaction of Science and Faith in a Challenging World

Keynote Speaker: Revd Prof. Alister McGrath
Sunday 4th – Friday 9th July 2021, Online

Life in this world produces an ever increasing range of challenges from Covid-19 to the climate emergency to medical ethics and finding meaning and purpose. Science and Faith both give us ways to understand and respond to these challenges, especially when they work together.

Join us online to explore this subject in some depth in the company of a group of top academics and hear them speak about their science and how it impacts their faith.
